

June 27, 2022 is PTSD Awareness Day

On June 27, we talk about Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, a complex disorder caused by experiencing or witnessing trauma.

The trauma necessary to cause PTSD can originate from many events such as an accident, combat, a natural disaster, or an assault.

There are other ways PTSD symptoms can arise, however.

Especially vulnerable are persons working in professions deemed essential, who have been working throughout the COVID pandemic.

You can help this campaign by educating yourself and others about the illness, and sharing help with those who might need it.

Come and join us on Monday, June 27, 2022 for a flag-raising ceremony to mark this important day.
